A Bibliography of Northeast Historical Archaeology, 1987–2006

David R. Starbuck, Compiler

Introduction

Twenty years have passed since the first CNEHA bibliography (Starbuck 1986), which included nearly all historical archaeology literature published within the area served by CNEHA up through the fall of 1987. The original CNEHA bibliography consisted of 1,884 citations, reflecting at least 60 years of research in the 7 provinces, 13 states, and the District of Columbia that are represented by CNEHA. In 1987 it may have appeared that traditional publishing would decline and be replaced by the “gray literature” of cultural resource management, but that has not occurred. Today articles pertaining to historical archaeology in the Northeast appear most frequently in the journals Northeast Historical Archaeology, Historical Archaeology, IA, The Journal of the Society for Industrial Archeology, Archaeology of Eastern North America, North American Archaeologist and Journal of Middle Atlantic Archaeology, as well as in the magazines Archaeology, National Geographic, Expedition, Smithsonian and American Archaeology. Also, the journals published by state and provincial archaeological societies now contain nearly as many articles about historical archaeology as they do about aspects of prehistory. At the same time, there has been a veritable explosion of books on historical archaeology topics, especially by such university presses as University Press of Florida, University Press of Virginia, University of Tennessee Press, Cambridge University Press, University Press of New England, and others. The result is that this new bibliography contains 2,087 citations pertaining to the Northeast. The current state of publications in our field appears very healthy indeed.

It may be said that there has been a “generational change” in who is doing the publishing. The earlier, 1986 bibliography was filled with entries by Ivor Noël Hume, James Deetz, John Cotter, Bert Salwen, Karlis Karklins, Ed Lenik, Olive Jones and others, many of whom are either retired or no longer with us. Now, of the older generation, only Ivor Noël Hume continues to publish vast numbers of books and articles, seemingly indefatigable in his ability to inform and fascinate us. But 20 years ago, and continuing today, the “baby boomers” and succeeding age sets have been prodigious in their publishing efforts. The “faces,” the research topics, and even the institutions that conduct research continue to change, but some very good work has been the result.

The contents and format of this “new” bibliography mirror the 1986 bibliography as closely as possible. Entries include published articles, books, master’s theses and doctoral dissertations, but they do not include book reviews, most newsletter items (although there are some exceptions), CRM reports, on-line reports, or most of the other ephemera of our field. (A notable exception is the “Telling Time” posters prepared for CNEHA by George Miller and his colleagues at URS Corporation. These have been included because it appears that these will be around in quantity for a long time to come!) It was also necessary to exclude some submissions because they did not pertain to the region served by CNEHA, and others because they are still “In Press,” and it was unclear as to when they would actually be published. There is no duplication between the earlier bibliography and this one, but a small number of pre-1986 entries that were missed in the earlier bibliography have been included here.

There are no doubt some omissions, inconsistencies and downright errors in this bibliography, in spite of very good intentions. Many individuals submitted copy for inclusion that contained contradictory or missing information (such as volume and page numbers), there was a certain “looseness” in indicating the correct sequence of “senior” vs. “junior” authors, and it has not been possible in some cases to locate and verify the accuracy of every citation.
And while we all depend on bibliographies as a guide to further research, it has been distressing at times to find that a host of published citations (at the ends of articles and books) are loaded with errors. That, too, did not make it easy to assemble this bibliography. Some articles published in state and local journals may also be missing, even though many of these were carefully combed through.

What did make this task easier, though, was the assistance of dozens of CNEHA members who sent in entries for inclusion. I have tried to faithfully incorporate all of your entries, except for the occasional book review, newsletter entry, or CRM report. Perhaps these will some day be included in bibliographies elsewhere. I would especially like to thank Ellen Blaubergs for submitting a great many entries about archaeology in Ontario, David Poirier who submitted many entries for Connecticut, Paul Huey and Charles Fisher who submitted many entries for New York State, Monique Elie who provided many entries for Quebec, and Mary Beaudry who provided entries for many of her students and colleagues. Mary and Ellen also spent a very substantial amount of time proofreading and then adding to the nearly-completed bibliography.

As with the 1986 bibliography, at the end of many of the entries there is a letter abbreviation in brackets to indicate the pertinent state or province. The abbreviations are as follows:

- NL Newfoundland and Labrador
- ON Ontario
- QC Quebec
- NB New Brunswick
- PEI Prince Edward Island
- NS Nova Scotia
- ME Maine
- NH New Hampshire
- VT Vermont
- MA Massachusetts
- CT Connecticut
- RI Rhode Island
- NY New York
- PA Pennsylvania
- NJ New Jersey
- DEL Delaware
- VA Virginia
- WV West Virginia
- MD Maryland
- DC District of Columbia

Bibliography

Abatelli, Carol

Abbot, John, Graeme S. Mount, and Michael J. Mulloy

Ackermann, Eric G.

Adams, Nick

Affleck, Richard M.
