The Society for Ancient Greek Philosophy invites all interested persons to attend the 1984 December meetings:

With the Eastern Division of the American Philosophical Association at the New York Hilton: Dec. 28, 1984, 7:15 p.m. in the Beekman Parlor:
- Terence H. Irwin, Cornell University, "Socrates the Epicurean?"
  - Chair: Anthony Preus.

With the American Philological Association at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto: Dec. 29, 1984, 1:30 p.m. in the Algonquin Room:
  - Chair: Margaret Reesor, Queen's University.

Members of the Society who have paid dues for 1984 receive copies of these papers with this notice.

The Society plans to meet with the Pacific Division at the Golden Gateway Holiday Inn, March 21-23 (we have requested a meeting time on the 21). Edward Warren, of San Diego State, has promised a paper on "Plato's Refutation of Thrasymachus: The Crafts Argument," and Charles Young, Claremont Graduate School, has promised a paper on "Aristotle on Temperance." The Society also plans to meet with the Western Division at the Palmer House in Chicago, April 25-27 (we have requested a meeting time on the 25); Mark McPherran, of the University of Texas at Arlington, and Michael Morgan, of Indiana University at Bloomington, have promised papers, titles to be announced soon. Those who have paid 1984 dues will receive all four of these papers in due course.

Those receiving this Newsletter will notice that an advertisement for the reprint of Kahn's book on Anaximander has been included. We have been making our (computerized) mailing list available to publishers advertising books in ancient Greek philosophy, supposing that members would like to know about new and reprinted publications; on this occasion it seemed just as easy to send out the flers with the other material. If some find the receipt of such advertising objectionable, we could probably flag their addresses in a way which might prevent their getting advertising as a consequence of their inclusion on our mailing list.
